There will be a small percentage that want "off the wall" scenarios discussed. That doesn't touch the "all families feel included" that's mentioned above. Stick with basics. Let families do the work when there special interest groups that are not well received topics.

I am against all of these. Each of these curriculums you are deciding between has been developed by affiliates of Planned Parenthood. Planned Parenthood won't even do an ultrasound on a pregnant woman UNLESS they plan to terminate the pregnancy (abortion). CARDEA has taught teachers and affiliates in CA ways to have students go to medical clinics without parental knowledge. (I have been on these zoom meetings). It's fine to teach the basics of sexual education to our children, 6th grade and up, but each of these "approved" curriculums from OSPI has ties to Planned Parenthood (founded by Margaret Sanger 1916 & Dr. Mary S. Caldrone was the Medical Director 1953-1964) - SIECES (formed by Caldrone in 1964 & instigated the movement to legalize abortion) - National Sex Ed Standards -(Developed by Future of Sex Ed which is a partner of SIECES, Advocates for Youth which is a partner of Planned Parenthood and Answer which is an affiliate of Planned Parenthood.) National Sex Ed Standards is used by OSPI as CORE Learning Standards in our Whatcom County Classrooms. Laurie Dils – OSPI Sexual Health Education Program Supervisor worked for Planned Parenthood for 7 years. I feel the best curriculums, if any, are the ones that only teach the basics and do not push the alternative lifestyle choices upon our children. Anyone can see the damage it has done to our children and grandchildren already. We must not let this continue.

I have a student at Meridian High School									The vast majority of this is entirely inappropriate and seeks to further an agenda to sexualize younger and younger children. That so many adults working in the public schools seek to groom minor children, and want to engage in conversations with them of a sexual nature, and expose them to pornographic written and visual material that would be illegal in any other setting, is a clear indication of how base and warped American education has become under the rule of one political party. This is a grotesque and vile abuse of children's innocence, to confuse them, and to shame them for having any convictions about the biological reality of two genders, the sanctity of life, and that sexual activity is for married men and women. This curriculum is designed to make a mockery of all that is good, pure, holy, and life giving, and drags minor children into the swap of adult sexual promiscuity, disease, fetish, and body dysmorphic disorders in the name of Education. Well, why not simply have State employees engage in various types of sex in front of the students, and then have the students do the same? Wouldn't that be educational? What a sick and twisted cabal of perverted bureaucrats. Epstein would be so proud of how low you have sunk, the children you have damaged, and gotten away with it.

I have a student at Meridian High School, I have a student at MP3	5	4	5	5		2	2	3	Thank you for taking the time to research options for the vast diversity of students and families. I think this is a huge undertaking. I would love to ensure that every voice is heard even if it doesn't fit the current PC narrative. If there are students who don't believe in gender fluidity and renaming their identity because they believe in God (and I quote my child with disabilities) and have said, "But that is saying God made a mistake and He doesn't make mistakes, because I'm not a mistake," their voice would be welcome. This is my biggest concerns about the new sexual education laws. If we make room at the table for all, then we are ensuring that all values and beliefs done with respect and love are heard. Thank you.

I have a student at Meridian Middle School	5	5	5	5	1	1	1	1	The school should teach the basic fundamentals of how bodies function, about the sexual reproductive system, and about safety. Kindness and respect for all, as well as nutritional/fitness advice (including the dangers of drugs/alcohol), should also be taught. Mental, emotional, and social health (generic terms that come with possible belief systems that may not match that of each family) should be the responsibility of students' parents or guardians. The four different sexual health material options for Meridian give the school/teachers and the state too much leeway to foster ideas and beliefs that may not align with that of families within the community.

I have a student at MP3	5	5	5	5	1	1	1	1	I realize that Comprehensive Sexual Health Ed Curriculum has been made into a law. Therefore you're looking for appropriate curriculum to teach to our kids. The problem is that you've chosen curriculum that aligns with the same progressive, leftist, anti-family agenda that the majority of the country is adopting. One of the main reasons I put my child into MP3 and the Meridian School District was the naive belief that since the school caters to a rural community that the values taught would be more conservative and pro-family. I was wrong and it's so sad to see this happening everywhere. The agenda being taught here is actually a hidden depopulation agenda and the people in charge there in Meridian are biting into it like everyone else and it's so frustrating. Please chose a different curriculum that is very minimal, only encourages parental engagement, and limits teachers engagement with the students. It's not their job to instruct on such a sensitive matter and it really is completely inappropriate in a classroom setting with both boys and girls. As our country becomes more progressive we see more suicide, more depression, and more loneliness than ever before. It's not working so stop the madness before we lose more kids and families to this nonsense.

I have a student at MP3	3	3	3	3	1	1	1	1	First, on the home page of their website pubertycurriculum.com , they give a false impression that 'their methods' are taught in every school in every State marked in colour on the map image towards the top of their page. They may be in ONE school in an entire State marked in colour, but they are not in every school, as their graphic suggests. I and many other parents know this for a fact as we have family/friends living in these States and know this program is not in their children's schools. So you are asking us to evaluate whether this would be a good method to teach our children, and here they are lying on the first page. This does not bode well and suggests they have something to hide.  Second, the questions you ask above are leading and do NOT go into everything their website says they want to talk to our children about. You did not ask if we are okay with our children being talked to about gender. You did not ask if we are okay with "Students will communicate with parents or other trusted adults about puberty so that they are continuing to build relationships with adults who can continue to be a support throughout adolescence." If you think that is a benign sentence, you are not very aware of how children are groomed regarding their sexuality, particularly in this State, as well as what is going on here regarding child trafficking.  Ultimately, this organization is NOT a trustworthy source. My suggestion is that you stop looking for someone outside your school to cover this topic, dig out what you used pre 2000, and get back to teaching the basics.

Many of the families saying it should be "taught at home" are not talking about this with their students. Additionally, it is useful to be exposed to inclusive language that is often not understood or taught in the home. It will be very important that the instructors sharing the materials feel comfortable and confident in the delivery. I suggest that, if necessary, the teaching of this material should be contracted out to professionals who are competent in the delivery.

In reading some of the assignments "creating a 2 minute commercial for a method of birth control" forces kids into awkwardness that is opposite of personal conversations. Please don't forget what it's like to be in 5th grade. Every parent I have talked to remember every detail of when they had "the talk" at school. And this was 30+ years ago for many of us. I don't think we need to put things into their heads about being trans etc, and just maybe broadly ask if there is anybody that wants to talk about that privately should be sufficient. I think putting in their head would be more confusing for some, like 'tomboys' for example. I liked doing boy things and wearing boys clothes and got along better with boys, but I never once thought I was a boy. I enjoyed dressing up and feeling girly once in a while too and that doesn't have to be a decision that's made as young children and they don't have to identify.

It is absolutely appalling that my tax dollars will go towards showing and teaching children immortal and pornographic teachings. This is nothing short of a travesty in our degrading educational system.

My son went through this in 5th grade. Never questioned anything. With the school getting money for their Sex Ed program I don't see myself including my child in this. Trust has been lost

This has sewn our distrust in the integrity and moral values of OSPI and the administrators behind the decisions being made recently. The unwavering trust that had once been given to our public school teachers is no longer. The pandemic, remote learning and time well invested by parents in our children has opened the eyes of many as to the shortcomings of a bloated and generic, one size fits all public school experiment. We can do so much better! As the shutter on wholesome unbiased, non-political, impartial and inclusive education rapidly closes, we are planning to join the thousands of other like-minded families that have already removed their most important legacies, (their children), from public schools and embark on a new and exciting educational journey. As educators and education administrators, we can only imagine that you are as hopeful and excited as we are! At one point in time, the mission was excellence in education, not a convenient public daycare for all. We reduce our sights on that goal! Respectfully,
